3. Present your findings to the class with a visual presentation. Please set up GOOGLE SLIDES to show some examples of the historical context, equipment used, a portrait of the person, the kinds of photographs that were taken by this equipment, etc.

Be sure to use your own words and cite where you get information from at the end of your presentation - Beware of plagiarism. USE YOUR OWN WORDS in a formal tone to summarize or use QUOTATION marks and reference these within your presentation.

Assign roles such as content researchers, visual presentation designer, presenters, etc.

The presentation is clear, the volume of the presenter and facing the audience is appropriate. The tone is formal (no informal slang or slouching, etc.).

The group presents the following information with required detail:

- What the method is
- The developers
- What method preceded yours? What method came after?
- The significance
- The positive things
- The negative things
- The characteristics
- Other facts, images, videos etc.
- Historical context
- Bibliography Included

Visual Presentation - carefully organized, clear images, few words on each screen, good colour choices in text and background to support the visual material.

Please make sure to make eye contact, be clear in your speech and have enough volume for everyone in the room to hear you.
